

EEMUA – the Engineering Equipment and Materials Users Association – is a non-profit membership organisation for users of engineering equipment and materials. EEMUA plays a pivotal role in ensuring its members’ physical assets and user requirements are in the best shape to contribute significantly to their companies.

Your company is a member of EEMUA – the EEMUA Conference 2025 is for you!

Join us on 26-27 March and be involved in two days that could transform your approach to safety, efficiency, and innovation, and help shape the future of engineering.

The focus will be on the future of engineering based on 75 years of EEMUA setting the standard for what good looks like in industry. The packed programme will explore how users, owners, and operators continue to overcome challenges and move towards a net-zero economy, stay secure as AI finds its way on site, and continue to shape the future of industry, driving progress towards a safe, efficient and sustainable future. We will be addressing cutting edge technology. We will be tackling the tough questions; how do we extend the life of ageing equipment without compromising safety? And addressing the human element; what does true leadership look like in high hazard environments?
